Conference and publications calendar

<http://micole.cs.uta.fi>

The conference and publications calendar has been implemented as a part of the MICOLE website on top of the Plone system, a user-friendly and powerful open source Content Management System. This system follows standards for usability and accessibility, it is technology neutral (runs on a vast array of platforms), and it is an open source tool (free to use). There is more information about Plone on www.plone.org

The calendar contains the conferences where MICOLE has been visible, and all the publications of the project. If the publication is available on the web, there is also a link to the actual paper. The calendar serves as a medium for both external and internal dissemination. The public calendar contains all the published papers. In addition, the internal calendar contains also works in progress, such as drafts and submitted papers.

As the list of publications is constantly growing, we ask the evaluators to check the present list of publications on the website when this deliverable is being evaluated.
